ORBCOMM NAMED ON CONNECTED WORLD’S 2016 CW 100 LIST
Recognized for its innovative business practices and technology leadership in the IoT industry

Rochelle Park, NJ, October 28, 2015 – ORBCOMM Inc. (Nasdaq: ORBC), a global provider of Machine-to-Machine (M2M) and Internet of Things (IoT) solutions, today announced that it has been chosen as one of Connected World magazine’s select 2016 CW 100, an annual ranking that recognizes the best companies of the evolving IoT industry and sets the precedent of what is to come. ORBCOMM placed 23 on this year’s CW 100 list.

“We are proud to be recognized in the prestigious CW 100 listing among the leaders and influencers in the connected devices industry,” says Marc Eisenberg, ORBCOMM’s Chief Executive Officer. “We will continue to drive innovation and technological advancement in the M2M and IoT industries and respond to the shifting demands of our key vertical markets with the most complete set of products, applications, and capabilities that enable enterprises to stay connected to their assets in every corner of the world.”

“Strategy and innovation are the name of the game for ORBCOMM. This company has made incredible progress in the past year or so. If you can name it, it has probably done it. Smart acquisitions, new products, enhanced satellite service, and new customers. We’re impressed,” says Peggy Smedley, Connected World magazine’s Editorial Director.

In selecting the 2016 CW 100, the editors of Connected World magazine ranked each company on its dedication to the advancement of its products and services. The list, which has been compiled annually since 2003, is globally recognized as an accurate snapshot of the market today and a template for future trends. An overview of the 2016 CW 100 is featured in the October/November 2015 issue of Connected World.
